Purposes of human resource development and our educational and research activities

Graduate School of Environmental and Information Studies

Quoted from Article 3, School Regulations of the Graduate School of Tokyo City University——

Purposes of human resource development and our educational and research activities

Graduate School of Environmental and Information Studies

Through advanced education related to the environment, information, and urban life, and through the practice of research that responds to social needs, the department aims to nurture human resources who can create new values and a rich society by cultivating analytical ability and insight in the natural, mathematical, and social sciences to accurately identify and solve problems in an increasingly complex world and region, and by conducting multifaceted research in cooperation with diverse stakeholders.

8 billion total population, $97 trillion global GDP, 63% global Internet usage, 3.7 billion tons of annual primary energy consumption (oil equivalent), 33.5 billion tons of annual CO<sub>2</sub> emissions, 4.5 billion urban dwellers...In 2015, the United Nations took the lead in establishing sustainable development goals. The global goals aim to combat various issues of climate change, water, ecosystem, urban cities and infrastructures. To resolve a broad variety of global issues, human beings need to make excellent use of artificial intelligence, IoT, big data, and other cutting-edge information processing technologies to bring dramatic progress to eco-innovation, such as biomass and renewable energy, and realize smart cities and ecotowns promptly. Although the government, local governments, corporations, NPOs, NGOs, consumer organizations and various organizations are required to promote these efforts, there is a critical deficiency in human resources who can lead these organizations.

The mission of the Graduate School of Environmental and Information Studies is to deepen basic research and applied research related to the environment, information, and urban life, which are new and crucial research domains for the 21st century. Concurrently, it strives to realize sustainable society by implementing research findings in society. The school offers a curriculum that places emphasis on developing the ability to see things from a higher perspective and see through the true nature of problems, as well as the power of executing research backed up by specialized knowledge and skills and communication skills to share the research findings with the international community. The school has 47 personnel who are active in each field of the environment, information, and urban life to provide highly concentrated research guidance, which is close to a one-to-one basis. Students also receive internships and research projects through cooperation with corporations and local governments. The intermediate presentations along with English presentations held regularly along with research presentations at international conferences held overseas will be valuable experiences and assets in the future for students studying in the graduate school.

The graduates of the Graduate School of Environmental and Information Studies work in various research institutions, consulting firms, information industries, and local governments while playing an active part as experts to resolve global environmental and social issues. Their achievements prove the high quality of the curriculums taught in the graduate school. Through the school's curriculum, students will deepen their expertise (warp) to understand a broad range of domains in a cross-sectoral manner (woof). By improving their well-rounded comprehensive skills with proportioned warp and woof, students are expected to develop to become human resources who can contribute to the realization of a sustainable society important for our Earth and its people.

4. About General Screening (English), Special Screening for the overseas partner Institutions and Special Screening for International students

Environmental Informatics and Urban Life Sciences (Doctoral Course) only

In the Master's Course, classes and research guidance are conducted in English, and in the Doctoral Course, special research and research guidance are conducted in English. In the "Doctoral Course", special research and research guidance are conducted in English. Students can obtain a degree in each program by taking classes, exercises, and special research (only in the Master's Course) in English, as well as special research (only in the Doctoral Course) in each field in English, and thesis writing guidance in each field.

For international students enrolled in the Graduate School of Environmental Informatics, all classes and research guidance will be conducted in English.

After entering the Graduate School, all poster presentations, English research presentations, interim presentations, and master's thesis presentations will be conducted in English.

(1) The timing of classes will be determined through consultation between applicants and course instructors.

(2) In principle, literature research, exercises, and special research in English will be conducted during class hours.

5. Exemption from TOEIC Oral English Examination

Master's course/ General screening (Japanese)only

Application Documents : 6	Official TOEIC Certificate (not available online)
---------------------------	---

Applicants with a TOEIC test score [either the public test or the IP test (group special examination system)] that exceeds the standard set by the Graduate School of the University may be exempted from the English oral examination in the interview. Please be sure to contact the Educational Support Center before submitting your application for the standard score. However, only scores from April 1 of the year before the year in which the entrance examination is conducted are valid. If exemption is not granted due to incomplete documents, etc., the applicant will be notified separately before the examination voucher is sent out.

Open Test

The Institute for International Business Communication conducts this test 10 times a year (January, March, April, May, June, July, September, October, November, and December) in 80 cities throughout Japan. Registration is available online or at convenience stores. For details, please refer to the TOEIC Steering Committee web page below.

IP Test Institutional Program (IP: Institutional Program)

The organizer is the same as above, but this refers to a test administered by an organization (company, school, etc.) with a corporate status to its members (limited to a group of 10 or more people). The validity of the test results is usually judged to be equivalent to that of a public test.

The test is administered several times a year at each campus. Details of the test administration and application procedures will be posted on the bulletin board, so please check the details by yourself. Please note that the score sheets for the online test will not be accepted.

6. List of application documents

Notes for international students

Application documents	Transcripts	The following items are not intended for applicants who have graduated (completed) universities in Japan or are expected to graduate (complete.)
	Graduation Certificate/Certificate of Expected Graduation

6-1. Common Matters for All International Students and Applicants

1. Please be sure to submit your transcripts and graduation (completion) certificate issued by your last school in your country. If you receive a certificate, be sure to submit the one with the official seal of the school. (If the certificate contains multiple pages, all pages need to have the official seal.)
2. Please submit the original transcript or a certified true copy (a copy certified as a true copy of the original by the school from which you graduated, the embassy, or other public institution) of your transcript and graduation certificate.
3. If the document is written in a language other than Japanese or English, please provide a Japanese or English translation. The translation must be certified by an official organization such as an embassy that it is consistent with the meaning of the original.
4. In addition to the Certificate of Graduation, please submit a copy of the Diploma if possible.
5. If the name, date of birth, etc. on the certificate differs from that on the passport, please obtain proof of identity from the embassy or other public institution.
6. The certificate must be issued within three months prior to the date of application. However, this does not apply if only one original copy is available, so please enclose a note explaining the circumstances.
7. Those who do not have a status of residence in Japan will need to apply for a new visa, which may delay their entry into Japan.
8. Applicants from undergraduate, master's, and doctoral courses at our university do not need to submit transcripts and graduation (completion) certificates for the relevant courses, but they do need to submit transcripts and graduation (completion) certificates for courses they did not study at our university.
9. In principle, foreign applicants must be able to obtain "Student" status of residence at the time of admission.
